Churchill Unveils Redesigned Website

Vancouver, BC (October 17, 2016) — Churchill International Property Corporation today announced the launch of a new, redesigned version of its website, www.churchillinvestments.com. Key features of the site include a cleaner and more attractive design, a more engaging user experience, along with greatly enhanced content and state-of-the-art navigation functionality.

“We are proud to launch our newly revamped website, and believe it will provide visitors with a very informative experience” says Philip Langridge, Chariman & CEO of Churchill International Property Corporation. “I think it provides visitors with a comprehensive overview of what Churchill does, our values and the track record we’ve established over the course of forty years in the real estate business.”

The site's refreshed and simplified look, combined with enhanced content, improved navigation functionality, and optimization for mobile devices are based on direct requests from site users. The new site has extensive content related to all of Churchill’s active, completed and legacy funds, as well as detailed information and photos for every property in the Churchill portfolio.

“This is a significant upgrade to our online presence because it offers quick and easy access to essential information for our investors, their representatives and anyone interested in investing with us,” said Brad Wise, President of Churchill International Property Corporation. “We are about to make available our newest real estate investment offering – Churchill Private REIT – and this will be a valuable new resource for our investors, both new and old.”

Churchill’s new website will be updated on a regular basis with news of investment offerings, business activity, corporate milestones, events, and investor and financial information. Please check back regularly.

About Churchill International Property Corporation

Founded in 1989, Churchill International Property Corporation (CIPC) is a full-service real estate asset management company and a successful sponsor of over twenty-five Real Estate Limited Partnerships. In 2016, CIPC officially launched a new flagship fund — Churchill REIT — an open-ended, private Real Estate Investment Trust. Churchill has a long track record of successfully syndicating public and private real estate offerings, and has raised $450 million in equity with the participation of more than 4,500 individual and institutional investors. With over $1 Billion in successful real estate acquisitions, financing, development, management and dispositions, Churchill is proud of the fact it has never lost one dollar of investors capital, while achieving an average IRR of 16.4% on completed funds. The principals of the company - Philip Langridge and Brad Wise - have a combined 70 years of international commercial and residential real estate experience. The company currently has more than $250 million in investment-grade assets under management and is focused on making opportunistic acquisitions in select North American markets that will provide its investors with stable cash flow and capital appreciation. The company prides itself on the highest standards of business ethics and professionalism. Preservation of investor’s capital is The Golden Rule.
